

CODE OF ETHICS AND CONDUCT

INTRODUCTION

PRF seeks excellence in engineering, construction and maintenance services in all areas of fuel gases. What we demand of ourselves reflects this challenge.

PRF is well aware that success in an increasingly competitive market depends on this philosophy. At PRF we value the achievement of objectives and results, the maximization of profitability and the satisfaction of the client and other stakeholders that can be achieved if we act as a true work team with rigor and professional integrity and with total commitment to the company.

PRF assumes its role in society as a company whose conduct is a reference for all.

The Code of Conduct establishes the principles of social responsibility and professional ethics to be adopted by all PRF employees in their internal and external relationships.

PRF guides its actions according to the following values :
